

3/20/2024 NPHIC Call

Meeting Notes – Topics to Share

2024 Pacific Public Health Fellowship Program Application Announcement

PIHOA announces that applications are now open for both Public Health Fellows and Host Site Supervisors to join the next cohort of the Pacific Public Health Fellowship Program (PPHFP). The PPHFP is a great opportunity for new college graduates interested in and passionate about making a difference in people's health in the U.S.-Affiliated Pacific Islands (USAPIs) to join a dynamic community of expert practitioners and emerging health leaders dedicated to meeting the health needs of our USAPI communities. There are also opportunities for health agencies or programs in the USAPIs to train and mentor a Pacific Public Health Fellow to support their goals and encourage young people to enter the health workforce. More information.

Dengue Clinical Case Management Course

As Dengue cases rise around the world, it may be helpful to brush up on some related education and training. The CDC offers a web-based Dengue Clinical Case Management course for healthcare providers, whose aim is to increase knowledge of and develop competency in the management of patients suspected to be infected with dengue virus.

Registration Open for Public Health Law Summit

The 2024 Public Health Law Summit in Washington, DC from September 23–25 brings together public health leaders and practitioners, legal experts, and community advocates to drive actionable changes in maternal and reproductive health policies and practices. Attendees will learn about best practices and innovative approaches to addressing disparities in maternal and reproductive health and will leave with resources and essential insights to bolster their advocacy and advance their efforts to secure reproductive health care for all. Learn more and register.